Abstract of the Disclosure:

An electronic component is produced by incorporating a sacrificial part in a plastic housing shape. After molding, the sacrificial part is etched out or otherwise removed from the completed plastic housing. As a result, channels and/or cavities can be formed in the plastic housing in order to allow access to sensor areas on the semiconductor chip.

WHS:tk-MAS-FIN-409F//10/2/2003